

JON KIDWELL

LEADERSHIP COACH | TRAINER | SPEAKER

HI, I'M JON

I'm the founder and leader of Leadwell, a leadership development company.

We help mission-driven leaders and organizations align their teams, develop leaders, and build a winning culture through executive coaching and group coaching, custom leadership development programs for mid-level leaders, and organization-wide training events. To date, my team and I have coached or trained over 1,500 leaders.

In addition to my leadership development business, I teach as an Org. Leadership M.A. Adj. Professor for the Townsend Institute at Concordia University Irvine. Classes I teach include:

- Building Healthy Culture & Performance
- Leading Transformational Growth & Change
- Ethical Decision-Making & Cultural Foundations

For over 20 years, I have served in leadership roles as an employee or Board member in private companies and nonprofits, large and small, ranging from a local focus to a global impact. My last corporate tenure was as VP of Innovation and Operations for a $100+ million global nonprofit in Houston, TX.

My wife, Meghan, and I have three remarkable children: Anna (6), William (3), and Benjamin (1). Houston is home and has been for 14 years.
